PROJECT DESCRIPTION

Fort Hill Infrastructure Services was retained by Special Operations Command South to facilitate the development of design requirements and standards for live fire shoot houses. Fort Hill conducted a charrette to elicit input on the programming requirements for permanent and modular relocatable shoot house structures. The assignment included conducting research to identify preferred design features and mandatory safety requirements. In conjunction with staff members and end users, Fort Hill assisted in the development of certification criteria for all expeditionary shoot house structures.
